The Legacy Trail is a twelve-mile long paved walking and biking trail leading from the Isaac Murphy Memorial Art Garden in the East End, and other areas in downtown, to the Kentucky Horse Park. The Legacy Trail is a public art venue, a place to learn about our environment and our past, and a great way to simply get healthy and enjoy our beautiful countryside. Over eight miles are completed in the first phase.

This Trail is the result of a community-wide effort to identify projects that would become Legacies after the Alltech/FEI World Equestrian Games were over. The other Legacy Project is the revitalization of Lexington's historic East End.

This Trail is a reality thanks to the generosity of the property owners along the route, the diligent and dedicated work by the Lexington Fayette Urban County Government, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, scores of community volunteers, Blue Grass Community Foundation, and the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation.

The Legacy Trail and the Renaissance in the East End are testaments to the power of a city working together to make itself even better. Legacies.

The Legacy Trail opened to the public on September 12, 2010. Enjoy your trail!

Feel free to plan your outing beginning at any point along the Trail – the North Lexington Family YMCA at 381 West Loudon Avenue, Coldstream Park off McGrathiana Avenue, or the North Legacy Trailhead at Ironworks Pike across from the Horse Park Campground. Plenty of parking is available to ensure that getting to and on the Legacy Trail is as easy as possible.
